

Declaration

Maurice Elmalem September 20, 2015 DAY

It is through his dedication to the martial arts, his pioneering impact as one of the most respected leaders in the martial arts community, his long-term devotion to carrying on the traditions of those before him and his unyielding promotion of the arts through breaking and creating new world records, that the Martial Arts History Museum is proud to recognize today, the 20th of September, in the year 2015 as Maurice Elmalem Day.

This declaration serves as public acknowledgement for his efforts towards the preservation of the martial arts, its history and its artifacts for the benefit of this and future generations.

MUSEUM EVENTS

The Martial Arts History Museum is very excited about our new series of PSA's and commercials to bring awareness to the Museum. Already aired on KABC Channel 7 is our promotional commercial and it has been working. Starting Aug. 31, our new 30 second spot will be featured until the end of December on the Nickelodeon Channel. The first series of commercials includes pioneer Fumio Demura (Karate Kid), Americas Abesamis (iCarly), Henry T. Yamada (Pirates of the Caribbean), William Chris Ford (Karate Kid), Michelle Manu, Chad Eagan, Chinzo Machida and Kai Moriya.

With your help, we can make it go viral. Please share and view this video as much as possible.
